

Dillon International Heritage Camps India COUNSELOR/CAP* Guidelines

To serve as a counselor/CAP at the Dillon International Heritage Camp. I understand the importance of my position and will do the best of my ability to fulfill my duties as a counselor/CAP. I understand that I am responsible to Camp Director and staff and will work with them to make camp a wonderful experience for the children in my care. I agree to the following guidelines for counselors/CAPS:

1. I will not bring I-pods, CD players, books, comic books, or other personal items to camp. Cell phones should be turned off during camp hours. NO TEXTING IS ALLOWED!!! Phones will be made available for use in case of an emergency.
2. I understand possession and/or use of (or suspicion of use) of drugs, alcohol, cigarettes or public displays of affection will be grounds for immediate dismissal from camp.
3. My personal appearance is important and I will reflect a positive attitude.
4. My clothing or hats will only have appropriate designs or slogans. Clothing will be modest (no short shorts or halter tops). I understand that my clothing, hair style, body piercing (only earrings for ears) and other outward appearance must not distract the children from their activities.
5. I will at all times be with my group or my camp assignment and giving my attention to my duties.
6. If I feel that I am having difficulty with anything, I will talk with the Camp Director.
7. I will be at camp on: Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
8. I will attend the mandatory counselor/CAP training and understand if I do not attend I will not be allowed to be a counselor.

CAP fee is $60- CAP's by definition are Counselors in Training. This will be their 1st year as a teen helper and will be mentored by someone older.

Counselor's have no fee. Counselor's by definition are seasoned teen helpers. This will be at least their 2nd year as a teen helper.

Attached to this disclosure is a written summary of your rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) as prepared by the Federal Trade Commission. Please take this with you.

You have the right to receive, upon your written request within a reasonable period of time, (not to exceed 30 days) a complete and accurate disclosure of the nature and scope of the investigation requested. You have the right to make a request to AMERICANCHECKED, INC., upon proper identification, to request the nature and substance of all information in its files on you at the time of your request, including the sources of information, and the recipients of any reports on you that AMERICANCHECKED, INC. has previously furnished within the two-year period preceding your request. AMERICANCHECKED, INC. may be contacted by mail at 4870 S. Lewis Ave. Ste. 211, Tulsa, Oklahoma, 74105, or by phone at (800) 975-9876.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need -- usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.

- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:
